

Directions to TFACA from I-65

Take Interstate 65 N up to the Chapel Hill/Columbia Exit (you will see a brown sign also stating Henry Horton State Park Exit). When you exit the interstate make a right headed toward Henry Horton State Park. (hwy 412 to hwy99)

You will travel 412/99 until you come to the end and it turns off to Hwy. 431, (there will be an old white country store directly in front of you so you know you are in the right place) you will need to bear a right at this intersection.

Travel 431 about ½ mile and then you will make a left onto Hwy. 99. (there will be another brown sign showing Henry Horton State Park this way) There is a log cabin River Rats rental shop right on the corner as well.

Go to the end of Hwy. 99 till you get to the blinking red light, you will need to make a left onto Hwy.31A, travel about ½ mile or less and turn right onto Hwy. 270 (it is directly across from a BP store and a Church of Christ sits right on the corner).

You will stay on Hwy 270 until you come to the end and make a left onto Hwy. 41A. Stay on Hwy. 41A and look for Unionville-Deason Road on your right. (It's just after a small log cabin hair cutting place on the right and before you get to the elementary school.) If you pass the school you have gone too far.

Turn right onto Unionville Deason Road. You will come to a 4-way stop. Go straight and TFACA will be on your left approximately 4-5 miles. (look for all the green tin roofed buildings)

You are probably going to think you are never going to get here. It seems like long and winding roads. That is the best way to get here from Int. 65 though. Hope these notes did not confuse you too much.
